

When you change the routine

When planning activities like holidays that are not part of your family's regular routine, take the time to share the information with your child who is deaf or hard of hearing. They are unlikely to learn what's happening from overhearing your conversations.

